

International Graduate Development Opportunities

Cooper Industries Ltd. -

Operations Leadership Programme

Excellent benefits + International placements

Cooper Industries, a global manufacturer with 2007 revenues of $5.9Bn with administrative headquarters in Houston USA, devotes substantial resources to the recruitment and ongoing development of graduates from the best colleges and universities around the world.

The two year Operations Leadership Programme is structured around rotational work assignments that prepare future leadership by offering the chance to learn through hands-on experience and professional training, qualification and in-house company workshops.

If you aspire to become a future leader in a global manufacturing business and possess a technical degree, ideally in mechanical, electrical engineering, or a combined degree in business or marketing, we would welcome your application for a place on our Operations Leadership Programme - 2009.

To apply, email your CV with covering letter to europengrads@cooperindustries.com

Applicants must be aware this is an international programme and consideration will only be given to applicants prepared to travel and take international assignments during the two years duration of the programme.
